Course contents

---

The BIP course relevance is related to this key topic for a sustainable agriculture and food production, as evidenced by the 2030 Sustainable Development Agenda of the United Nations. The goal 12.3 of the UN Agenda states that: “by 2030, halve per capita global food waste at the retail and consumer levels and reduce food losses along production and supply chains, including post-harvest losses”.

The main Objective of the course is to create a multidisciplinary collaborative teaching environment in which the students will acquire knowledge in the food waste management and apply their knowledge to the definition of possible best practice to prevent and mitigate the food waste in all the sectors, from production to final consumption.

---

The objective of the course is to increase students’ knowledge of the current food waste situation and to actively study novel strategies to prevent or mitigate food waste, which could be proposed as good practices.

The course target

- The BIP course is designed for 1st university cycle (bachelor, EQF6 level) and is mainly addressed at students from Food Science, Biology, Nutrition and Dietetics, Agricultural Sciences and Biotechnology.
